CT Folk & New Haven Arts Council invites you to participate in New Haven's 5th annual Make Music Day celebration; organized for the people, by the people.

Make Music New Haven is a part of the international Make Music Day initiative that takes place on Tuesday, June 21, 2022. The International Make Music Day celebration brings FREE community-organized musical performances across the globe with over 800 communities participating in the event each year.

Make Music Day events are organized with, for, and by the community. Make Music New Haven has historically been organized by The Arts Council of Greater New Haven, this year Make Music New Haven is thrilled to announce our partnership with 501(c)3 organization, CT Folk. CT Folk engages, entertains, and inspires through diverse folk music while helping to foster a socially just and environmentally sustainable community. Arts Council and CT Folk are thrilled to work in tandem to ignite communities across the Greater New Haven Region and celebrate music on June 21!

Make Music New Haven is a cross-cultural celebration of the magic that is music, rooted in joy and fueled by spirit. We believe that Music has an irrefutable power to unite neighborhoods, amplify voices, and unleash everyone's innate creativity.

Make Music Day will feature a series of community-led concerts in unordinary (and sometimes ordinary) venues across the Greater New Haven area. This can look like performances on sidewalks, in community gardens, in neighborhood parks or even on your front porch. Artists can live to stream their concerts from their bedroom, studio space, or backyard.

Make Music New Haven events are organized with, for, and by the community. Any venue, place of business, musician professional, or human can host a Make Music Day concert. Artists are encouraged to invite neighbors, friends, and families to attend your event. Events can be held in person or live-streamed online. All live Make Music Day performances encourage audience participation.
